Proofs submitted to the Commission:

- a ticket of location stating that Lieutenant McCoy is entitled to 600 acres of land by His Majesty's Instructions, and has drawn lot 8, concession 1 in Seigneurie No. 9, consisting of 200 acres. The ticket is dated September 30, 1787, at Bay of Quinty, and was signed by John Collins, Deputy Surveyor General. {vol. 32, pg. 409}
- an affidavit from the trustees of the estate of William McKay, late lieutenant in His Majesty's Corps of New Yorkers, stating that they were assigned to their post for the benefit of William McKay's creditors, and are therefore transferring all rights and title to the above lot to Alexander McKenzie, merchant of Montreal, who purchased the lot at public auction on October 1, 1795. The affidavit is dated October 5, 1795, and was signed by trustees Richard Dobie and Patrick Langan before G.[?] Beek, notary public. {vol. 32, pg. 409a}
